INTRODUCTION

This report identifies active and inactive mining operations permitted by the Land Quality Section, Division of Land Resources, as of June, 1994. This annual report provides a comprehensive listing of permitted mines by county and by commodity. The report includes historical data on permitting and reclamation statistics, mineral exploration and production news, regulations, legislation, and sources of geological information and topographic maps in North Carolina.

This year's report is especially important because of the recently completed permit cycle. Many permits were either renewed or dropped. This report contains these changes as of June, 1994 and some changes in statistics.

Beginning in 1995, this report will be produced near the end of the calendar year. Previously this annual report was produced in June.

MINERAL PRODUCTION NEWS

North Carolina produces a significant quantity and dollar value of industrial minerals. These include clays, feldspar, gemstones, scrap mica, peat, sand and gravel (construction and industrial), stone (crushed and dimension), pyrophyllite, lithium minerals, olivine, and phosphate rock. Estimated production by value in 1993 was "...essentially unchanged from the record high set in 1992....The value decreased 0.3% from $595.6 million in 1992 to $593.7 million in 1993 according to the U.S. Bureau of Mines' annual preliminary report, The Mineral Industry of North Carolina in 1993. The U.S. Bureau of Mines report noted that "... Increases in the value of crushed stone, North Carolina's leading mineral commodity, and four other minerals were offset by a significant decrease in the value of the State's second leading mineral commodity, phosphate rock, along with smaller decreases in clays, lithium, scrap mica, olivine, peat, and pyrophyllite. Crushed stone increased in value by 12.6% from $262.4 million in 1992 to $295.4 million in 1993. Other minerals increasing in value were construction sand and gravel, dimension stone, feldspar, and industrial sand and gravel. Phosphate rock remained the second most valuable mineral produced in the State despite its loss of value. Lithium minerals remained in third place.

North Carolina's national ranking improved to 17th in 1993 from 18th in 1992. The State continued to lead the Nation in the quantity and value of feldspar, lithium minerals, scrap mica, olivine, and pyrophyllite produced. The State "...also led the Nation in the production of clay used for the manufacture of bricks and ranked second in the production of phosphate rock and in the quantity of common clay mined..." according to the Bureau of Mines report.

NEWS AND EXPLORATION IN
1994

This information supplements information contained in the U.S. Bureau of Mines report. North Carolina State University appointed Dr. R. B. Tippen, Director of the Minerals Research Laboratory located in Asheville.

Franklin Industrial Minerals Co. of Nashville, TN acquired 100% of KMG Minerals Inc., the USA's largest producer of ground mica. According to Franklin, the KMG operations in Kings Mountain have a capacity of up to 30,000 tpa of gravity separated, surface treated and untreated mica, in addition to secondary production of floated silica and K-feldspar for glass applications, and ball clays for ceramic brick and refractory application.

In other developments, Unimin bought Aimcor Olivine (Daybook deposit). Aimcor has another deposit under lease in Avery Co.

Minerals activities on federal lands are not included in the reported permit data but are included here for completeness. On U.S. Forest Service lands, Battle Mountain's three prospecting permits in Montgomery and Randolph counties were assigned to Cominco American Resources, Inc. ASARCO drilled six holes on one permit and applied for another in the same counties. J.B. Morris (Teab-Saunders Mine) has a prospecting permit also in Montgomery Co. in which the objective is to dewater a shallow shaft and obtain samples. The Jacobs Creek (Hall Mine) building stone quarry operated in 1994. Three material quarries were active in the Pisgah and Nantahala forests. BHP has a copper-zinc exploration program in the Nantahala National Forest.

MINING ACT OF 1971

The Mining Act of 1971 (G.S. 74-46 -- G.S. 74-74) requires that any person or firm wishing to engage in mining that will affect one acre or more in surface area must first obtain a valid state mining permit. The Land Quality Section, Division of Land Resources, administers the Mining Act. It also administers the Dam Safety Law of 1967 and Sedimentation Pollution Control Act of 1973. Other permits that may pertain to mineral extraction and processing, including air and water permits, are issued by the Division of Environmental Management.

1994 AMENDMENTS TO THE MINING ACT

The North Carolina General Assembly made several amendments to the Mining Act which were effective July 1, 1994. The changes include minor editorial and significant procedural changes.

Some of the more significant procedural amendments to the Mining Act were changes to the definition of "affected land" to clarify that the Mining Act covers initial clearing and grading as well as nonpublic site access roads, expansion of the requirement of notifying adjoining landowners and local officials to include permit modifications that add land involving new adjoining landowners, establishment of a 30-day period from the notification date to request a public hearing on an application for a new or modified permit, and the increase in daily civil penalties for permit violations from $100/day to $500/day.

The legislation also produced these additional procedural amendments to the Mining Act:

- Required that public hearings be held within 60 days of the end of the 30-day comment period noted above;
- Expanded the permit denial criteria to include consideration of adverse effects to potable groundwater supplies, direct and substantial physical hazard to public health and safety (excepting the use of public roads), and the compliance history of the applicant as well as any parent, subsidiary or affiliate of the applicant;
- Clarified that once a reclamation bond is filed with EHNR, the operator loses all right, title, and interest in the bond;
- Restricted the instruments to be used for bonding to surety bonds, cash deposits, irrevocable letters of credit, guarantees of payment from an acceptable bank, and assignments of savings account;

- Revised the procedure for revoking permits by changing "hearings" to "an informal conference" and reducing timeframes for conducting the conference;

- Reduced the timeframe from contesting the denial, suspension, modification, or revocation of a permit or the assessment of a civil penalty from 60 days to 30 days; and

- Required that all civil penalties collected be credited to the General Fund as nontax revenue.

PERMIT FEE SCHEDULE

The 1990 North Carolina General Assembly authorized permit application processing fees for mining as well as dams and erosion and sedimentation control (see North Carolina Administrative Code, Title 15A, DEHNR, Chapter 5, Mining as amended November 1, 1994 [T15A:05 TOC-1]). Table 1 lists established fees for mining permits. A later amendment effective May 1, 1992 involved visual screening. An amendment to the rules effective January 1, 1994 involved changes to the reclamation bonding requirements. An amendment effective November 1, 1994 established a 180 day deadline for permit applicants to respond to the DEHNR's requests for additional information concerning mining permit applications.

PERMIT GUIDE

The Department of Environment, Health and Natural Resources (DEHNR) published a guide to environmental regulations entitled the 1994 North Carolina Environmental Permit Directory, "a general introduction to environmental regulations and an overview of requirements governing the wise use and protection of the state's natural resources." It is available from DEHNR's Office of Environmental Education, P.O. Box 27687, Raleigh, NC 27611-7687 at a cost of $7.00 (plus 6% sales tax for sales in the State). Their telephone number is (919) 733-0711. A free summary brochure contains a permit matrix.

DATA ORGANIZATION

This permitted active and inactive mine list is organized by county (Appendix 1) and by commodity (Appendix 2). The following database categories are provided for each permit: owner, permit number, mine name, street (mailing address), city, state, zip code, contact person, telephone, status (A=active, I=inactive), commodity code and permit expiration date. ## MINING STATISTICS FOR ACTIVE AND INACTIVE MINES

The most recent year for which mining statistics for active and inactive mines are available is 1993. Tables 2-7 list, by commodity, the number of active and inactive permits, new acres disturbed in 1993, total acres reclaimed by the operator and released by DEHNR in 1993, total acres affected and

* Acres for new permits and renewal permits means the total acreage at the site. Acres for major modification of permits means that area of land affected by the modification within the permitted mine area, or any additional land that is to be disturbed and added to an existing permitted area, or both. Note: A nonrefundable $50.00 permit application fee is required for minor permit modifications. Minor permit modifications include ownership transfers, name changes and bond substitutions. A minor permit modification also includes lands added to a permitted area, outside the minimum permit buffer zone requirements, where no plans for mining related disturbance of the added lands have been approved. In addition, a nonrefundable $50.00 permit application processing fee is required for permit renewal for an inactive site provided that any previously disturbed areas have been reclaimed in a manner acceptable to the Department. Once renewed, prior to initiating any mining related disturbance, an application for a major modification and a processing fee shall be submitted to and approved by the Department. All other changes are considered major modifications.

LOCATIONS OF PERMITTED ACTIVE AND INACTIVE MINES IN NORTH CAROLINA

This report includes a series of generalized maps which show on a county base (Figure 3) the distribution of permitted active and inactive mines (Figure 4) and active mines alone (Figure 5). Generalized maps show the distribution of active mining operations by commodity (Figure 6 - 11). Appendix 1 lists the permitted active and inactive mines by county. Appendix 2 lists the permitted active and inactive mines by commodity.

APPLIED MINERALS RESEARCH AND GOVERNMENT RESOURCES IN NORTH CAROLINA

North Carolina Geological Survey (NCGS)

The North Carolina Geological Survey provides basic geologic information. Current studies include geologic mapping, stratigraphic framework studies, mineral resource investigations, and limited environmental and engineering studies. It maintains a sample repository which includes drill core, cuttings, and geophysical bore hole records. The repository contents are in a computer database to facilitate information retrieval. The geological survey has a modern heavy minerals laboratory. Reports of investigations are available from the NCGS.

The NCGS has various publications on mineral commodities including heavy minerals, feldspar, silica, phosphate, gold, titanium, lithium, building stone, clay, high alumina-minerals limestones, asbestos minerals and talc, and other industrial minerals. Current investigations are in progress for gold, mica, and feldspar. These reports and guidebooks focus on different mineral producing districts in North Carolina. The geological survey also has geologic maps at several scales but only about six percent of the state is covered by 1:24,000-scale geologic mapping. Limited funding from the recent passage of the National Geologic Mapping Act will help marginally to accelerate the rate of geologic mapping of the State at the scale of 1:24,000.

Comprehensive geochemical atlases of the state have been published both for reconnaissance stream sediment data and for groundwater and stream water data. Detailed locations and analytical data are also reported for the entire state in a series of reports based on 1:100,000 metric (100K) sheets.

Geological mapping at a scale of 1:24,000 continues on the Raleigh and Asheville 100K sheets. Reconnaissance studies of offshore sand resources for potential beach nourishment continues using shallow high-resolution seismic surveys. The initial survey was conducted off the northern shore of the state. Subsequent studies include additional seismic data acquisition; plans include vibracores for grain-size determinations.

The NCGS is an affiliate member of the National Cartographic Information Center. Free searches for holders of aerial photography are conducted; the CD-ROM database is updated annually. The NCGS also maintains a collection of statewide black and white photographs from 1950's and 1970's; these photographs are used frequently in environmental assessment work. The searches identify federal and state agencies or other organizations holding aerial photographs and remotely sensed data, and its availability. Clients requesting this service must provide at a minimum: 1) a latitude-longitude coordinate, 2) a "window" defined by latitude-longitude coordinates (all four window corners), or both. Supplemental information on season, cloud cover, color or black and white products, scale, and other parameters are helpful to meet your need(s).

Minerals Research Laboratory

Applied minerals research is conducted by the N. C. Minerals Research Laboratory (MRL), Asheville, a unit of North Carolina State University. The MRL develops new and improved processes to extract minerals from ore deposits and conducts research for the development of mineral resources in North Carolina, other states and foreign countries. Projects are undertaken as sponsored (fee basis) or state-supported projects. The laboratory conducts sponsored and unsponsored beneficiation projects on many commodities, especially industrial minerals. The Laboratory can conduct a wide variety of mineral dressing and pilot plant studies. Its facilities include mineral processing equipment and analytical support facilities for batch and continuous pilot plant research to develop workable flowsheets and to produce large samples for customer evaluation. Further information can be obtained from Dr. R. B. Tippen, Director, NCSU Minerals Research Laboratory, 180 Coxe Avenue, Asheville, NC 28801. The telephone number is (704) 251-6155; the FAX number is (704) 251-6381.

Other state government agencies

The Department of Commerce and the Governor's office provide information on business development and resources to domestic and international clients.
